About LAWASIA

LAWASIA is a regional association of lawyers, judges, jurists and legal organisations, which advocates for the interests and concerns of the Asia Pacific legal profession.

Structure

LAWASIA's governing body, the LAWASIA Council, is composed of representatives from peak legal bodies within the United Nations ESCAP region. As such, its policies and agenda are informed by, and directly address, issues confronting the legal profession throughout the Asia Pacific.

In addition to the bodies represented on its Council, LAWASIA has individual, organisational, law firm and corporate members drawn from over 40 jurisdictions. Every member has the opportunity to make a meaningful contribution to LAWASIA's activities by participating in one or more of its Sections and Committees.

Mission Statement

As the representative of lawyers and peak legal organisations from over 40 jurisdictions, LAWASIA's combined activities serve to:

- encourage and facilitate regional interaction at all levels amongst law associations, judges, lawyers and others involved in the legal community,
- provide an established voice for the interests of the legal community in Asia and the Pacific,
- promote the rule of law, respect for human rights, and high standards of legal practice,
- facilitate quality cross-border legal education that is available and relevant to all jurisdictions, regardless of resources or level of development, for the purpose of enhancing the caliber of legal practice throughout the region, and
- Promote business law initiatives which strengthen relationships.

Objectives

LAWASIA's central aim is to strengthen professional and business relations among law associations, lawyers, the private sector and government representatives in the Asia Pacific.

In the course of its activities across diverse political, social, cultural and economic contexts in the Asia Pacific, LAWASIA is further guided by the objects described on the following page.

Promote the administration of justice,
the protection of human rights and the maintenance of the rule of law within the region

Advance the standard of legal education within the region by all practicable means

Encourage communication and liaison between members in relation to general and specialised areas of law

Enhance the development of members' legal practices and their professional and business relations within the region

Further the diffusion of knowledge of the laws of the various countries within the region

Promote development of the law in the region

Advance the science of jurisprudence in all its phases and to promote the study and development of international law and of comparative law

Promote uniformity
within the region in appropriate fields of law

Further international understanding and goodwill

Assist and co-operate with international, regional, or other organisations having all or any of the above mentioned objects or similar objects

Foster relations and exchange between lawyers and associations and organisations of lawyers within the region

Uphold and advance
the status of the legal profession within the region

What We Do

LAWASIA advocates for the interests of the legal profession, the cross-border exchange of legal resources, and commitment to the rule of law, professional integrity and human rights.

Our Conferences

LAWASIA holds a number of legal conferences, seminars and meetings throughout the year as a means of supporting professional development, regional networking and the exchange of legal knowledge and insight. These events are open to the broader legal profession and span both generalist and specialised areas of law, such as family law, children's rights, employment law, intellectual property and human rights.

The annual conference is LAWASIA's flagship event and the highlight of its professional events program. The conference is a platform for the convergence of bar leaders, jurists, professional organisations and individual lawyers from across the Asia Pacific, and is designed to facilitate the discussion of regional developments in law, including such issues as judicial practice, legal education, cross-border business and investment law, and dispute resolution.

As a generalist legal event, the annual conference also serves as an important forum for sharing ideas, building professional networks, reinforcing shared professional values, advocating for the rule of law in varied jurisdictions, and advancing the status of the legal profession in the Asia Pacific.

Every second year, the annual LAWASIA conference is scheduled to coincide with the biennial Conference of Chief Justices of Asia and the Pacific—an event long viewed as the most notable achievement of LAWASIA's Judicial Section. The Conference of Chief Justices is a valuable opportunity for leaders of the regional judiciary to collaborate on current issues and foster a cohesive legal framework in the Asia Pacific.

Resolutions, Declarations & Statements of Principle

The LAWASIA Council often promulgates statements of principle that seek to reflect a consensus view of its members on matters of law, legal practice, the legal profession and/or the rule of law.

Significant examples include:

- Declaration on Children's Rights and Siem Reap Principles
- Statement on Principles of Access to Justice
- Resolution on Separation of Powers
- Declaration on the Need for Adequate Privacy Laws in the Region
- Resolution on Freedom of Assembly for Lawyers

Human Rights Initiatives

LAWASIA has been active in the area of human rights and protection of rule of law, principally as a reflection of the issues in its region that have concerned its member organisations and the broader legal community.

Among other things, LAWASIA works to promulgate and support the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and, in 2019, LAWASIA will host its inaugural Human Rights Conference in New Delhi, India, from 9-10 February.

Statements of concern about challenges to human rights and the rule of law are regularly considered and released by LAWASIA's Executive Committee and Council. In addition, LAWASIA undertakes observer missions, fact-finding assignments and related projects where the presence of its delegates is beneficial.

Current initiatives include:

- Fact-Finding Mission to Maldives
- Presidential Taskforce on the Humanitarian Crisis in Rakhine State
- Statement of Continuing Concern regarding the Treatment of Lawyers in China

Our Members

Members are the very core of LAWASIA. We are proud to represent a constituency of individual lawyers and peak legal organisations drawn from over 40 jurisdictions.

Why Join LAWASIA?

Members are LAWASIA's foundation, constituting its Executive Committee as well as its governing body, the LAWASIA Council.

Many lawyers join the association in order to support LAWASIA's ongoing work in promoting the rule of law and the protection of human rights. By joining LAWASIA, members may also contribute to the sensitivity of the legal profession to human rights in all facets of its work and in its standing as a driving force within civil society.

Membership of LAWASIA offers to individuals and their law firms the opportunity to interact on a regional basis, to build their knowledge and understanding of legal issues and to develop a network of colleagues throughout the world with a common interest in the practice of law in this region.

LAWASIA provides its member organisations with the opportunity to advance their interests and to exert their influence as part of a regional grouping of professional legal associations.

All members receive:

- Regular LAWASIA publications, including Asian Jurist, Update, and the LAWASIA Journal;
- LAWASIA Certificate of Membership and Lapel Pin;
- Reduced registration rates for LAWASIA seminars and conferences;
- The opportunity to present papers at LAWASIA seminars and conferences;
- Access to the LAWASIA website, which contains LAWASIA news and resources, Section and Committee information and the details of upcoming conferences, as well as links to other legal professional websites in the region;
- The opportunity to actively participate in Sections and Standing Committees; and
- An opportunity to form long-standing international relationships.
